NEW-YORK CITY.

The interdenominational services which are being held every afternoon at the Old John Street Methodist Episcopal Church are largely attended. At the one yesterday the Rev. Dr. William Lloyd preached.

The Baptist ministers held their weekly meeting at the Baptist Tabernacle, Second- and Tenth-st., yesterday, and elected the Rev. John W. Ashworth, of the Madougal Street Baptist Church, moderator for this year. The Rev. Dr. O. P. Eaches, of Hightstown, N.J., read a paper.

At the meeting of the pastors of the Reformed Church at No. 28 Readest-st. yesterday the Rev. W. H. Boocock read an account of the recent meeting of the Evangelical Alliance at Boston, at which he was a delegate.

The Rev. Dr. Maynard will deliver his historical and illustrated lecture on "The Cathedrals of the Netherlands and Italy" to-morrow afternoon at Chickering Hall.

The National Federation of Silk Workers will begin its annual convention in this city on January 18.

The strike on the Progress Club Building, at Sixty-third- and Fifth-ave., continues. Both sides are determined to hold out, and the Board of Walking Delegates has ordered strikes on the House Building, at Spring-st. and Broadway, and on four buildings in Bleeker-st.

A majority of the sailors and marines who will make up the crew of the new cruiser Charleston, now being fitted out, to become flagship of the Pacific Squadron, will start from the Navy Yard here to-morrow, to go by rail to San Francisco. There will be 137 sailors from the receiving-ship Vermont, 70 apprentices boys from the training-ship Minnesota, and 2 corporals and 40 privates of marines from the barracks.

No news of affairs in San Salvador was received at the Consulate of that country in this city yesterday, but a letter was received by the Consul, Perez-Triana, from the Salvadoran delegate to the Pan-American Congress, asking for information in regard to the recent rebellion.

"Sympathy" sends $1 to this office for the destitute family of Mrs. Elizabeth Connolly, at No. 221 Avenue A.

Esther L. Mungelgreen landed here yesterday from Austria with her three-year-old daughter, in search of her husband, Solomon, who came here some time ago. Solomon went to Castle Garden and wanted to carry off his child, refusing to take his wife. Mother and child may be sent back to Austria unless some one gives bonds for them.

The annual meeting of the New-York City Association of Union ex-Prisoners of War will be held on Friday evening, January 10, at the headquarters, Broadway and Forty-fifth-st. Several important reports will be made.

Mary Fallon, a young Irish woman, whose parents live at No. 749 Sixth-st., went to board with Mrs. Cunningham at No. 200 Eighth-ave. a few days ago, and slept with Mrs. Cunningham's daughter Elizabeth. On Sunday night they probably blew out the gaslight, and the room filled with smoke after they went to sleep. Yesterday morning Mary Fallon was dead and Elizabeth Cunningham was insensible. At the New-York Hospital later in the day the surgeons thought Elizabeth might recover.

District Attorney Fellows visited the Tombs yesterday, to find out by personal observation whether Mrs. Southworth's condition had been correctly reported. He said after his return to his office that he did not believe she would live to be tried.

Emma Cordes, who has been in the Tombs for nearly a year on a charge of murder in the first degree, was tried yesterday before Judge Martine. She was accused of killing her husband, Henry Cordes, on February 22, 1889. The jury, on Judge Martine's advice, acquitted the woman.

OFFICIAL CALL TO CLUBS.

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE'S CONVENTION.

PRESIDENT THURSTON'S INSTRUCTIONS—TO MEET IN NASHVILLE ON MARCH 4.

The official call for the third National Convention of Republican Clubs, to be held at Nashville, March 4, was issued yesterday by President Thurston, of the Republican League. It is issued from the National headquarters, No. 202 Fifth-ave., and bears the date of January 2. It is as follows:

OFFICIAL CALL.

National Convention of the Republican League of the United States.

To the Republican State Leagues of the United States and the Presidents of the National Convention of the United States, I am authorized to delegate to the Executive Committee by the National League Convention, assembled in Baltimore, Maryland, on the first day of March, 1889, and in obedience to instructions and authority given me by the Executive Committee, I hereby direct that the third annual convention of the Republican League of the United States shall convene in the city of Nashville, Tenn., at noon, on March 4, 1890, and continue in session throughout during such hours as said convention shall determine.

The business which will come before the convention will include the reports from the officers of the League, the election of officers and members of the Executive Committee, the adoption of a platform, the designation of the place of meeting for the subsequent National League Convention, and such other questions as the convention may deem proper.

Under the revised constitution of the National League, the convention will be composed of about 1,000 delegates. Article VI reads as follows:

"The National Convention shall be composed of two delegates-at-large from each State organization in the League, and of two delegates from each Congressional District in which there shall be one or more permanent Republican clubs, together with the president and secretary and all other officers of the National organization who shall be ex officio members. Each delegate shall be entitled to one vote."

To provide for the increased number of delegates in States where delegates were elected prior to the revision of the Constitution the Executive Committee on August 14, 1889, adopted the following resolution:

"That in states where the delegates to the National Convention of 1890 shall have been selected heretofore, and the delegation from such State is increased by the amendment to the Constitution thus adopted, the Executive Committee of the League shall have power to select additional delegates without reconvening the State convention."

The Republicans of Nashville have already appointed a Committee on Entertainment with W. C. Watson as chairman. All communications concerning local arrangements should be addressed to Mr. Watson.

Isidor Wormser, the well-known banker, has given the house No. 11 East Sixty-ninth-st. to his daughter, Miss Julia Schlesinger. Mr. Wormser bought the house in 1888, and has had it handsomely fitted up and decorated.
